Pollution closes most Mississippi oyster reefs

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

All Mississippi Sound oyster reefs west of Menge Avenue in Pass Christian to the Louisiana border are closed until further notice.

That was the message given to fishermen at about 11 a.m. Wednesday by State Bureau of Marine Resources law enforcement personnel. Dr. Fred Deegen, BMR saltwater fisheries chief, said later that day in Long Beach.

The state order closes all public Mississippi oyster reefs except two.

In addition, working fishermen were ordered to dump all catches that day back into the Sound, he noted.

Deegen reported the closure was ordered at about 10 a.m. Wednesday by the State Department of Health Shellfish Sanitation Branch in Jackson after tests of BMR water samples revealed an extremely high concentration of human wastes in the Sound.

He said, the high fecal coliform bacteria count resulted from last week's unusually heavy rains which flushed wastes from flooded sewage treatment systems and septic tanks in low lying areas.

Deegen also explained the influx of fresh water and mud from local rivers and streams will not kill the remaining oysters because the Sound temperature is relatively cool and salinity levels are still fairly high.

When asked when the reefs will reopen, Deegen replied, "There's no way of knowing how long, but we will take water samples daily and are closely monitoring the situation. I would hope the reefs would be opened before Christmas."

Although no reports of sickness resulting from eating oysters have been received, Deegen noted, "We have a potential health hazard that could put a damper on the oyster industry like what occurred recently in Louisiana."

Several people became ill after eating oysters taken from west Louisiana offshore waters and that area was closed.

"We have a clean record here so far and we like to keep it that way," Deegen stated.

Kenny May, Gulf Fishermen's Association secretary and owner of a Bayou Cadet seafood company, Wednesday afternoon reported fishermen are disgusted and worried about the closure, especially because it's right before the Christmas holidays. "Right now a lot of people are upset because this puts a crimp in their way to make a living," he stated.

"We're wondering what will happen," May said.

He speculated some fishermen may go to nearby Louisiana waters, but many can't because the deadline for oyster fishing licenses was sometime in September.

"A lot of us will just be tied up at the dock. This will hurt the oyster in-

OATH OF OFFICE—Waveland Mayor John Longo, center, and Aldermen Bob Hubbard, Barbara Rappold, Herman Yarbrough, and Louie Smolensky officially assumed their duties during ceremonies conducted by former city judge Lucien Gex Tuesday night at City Hall. Hubbard is the only newcomer to the board. In a short meeting following the swearing-in, the board voted to retain all current department heads with the exception of city judge Lucien Gex who resigned. Waveland attorney Aaron Adams was appointed to that position. The salary for the mayor and aldermen was set at $450 and $200, per month, respectively. (Photo by Randy Ponder)

Diamondhead townhouse projects total $15 million

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Purcell Co., Inc. of Diamondhead is in the midst of one townhome construction project and beginning another in the community carrying a combined construction cost of some $15 million.

Rick Rogers of Pass Christian, a Purcell project manager, Tuesday noted sewerage installation is underway for a $6 million development named Harbor House Townhomes immediately west of the yacht club on the Diamondhead Canal.

He estimated the actual construction of the project's 57 townhomes will begin in about 30 days and be completed in about one year.

Rogers explained Cape Cod style wood-frame structures will be built in clusters of three home units which for the most part will be built in a U-shape configuration along the canal. Two other inlets meeting the canal perpendicularly will border Harbor House on two sides.

The placement of the structures will allow most residents boat dock space and a waterfront view, he noted.

The project manager further explained townhomes are purchased similarly to condominiums with the exception being a townhome owner also purchases a lot.

All the housing units will be elevated which will allow parking and a storage area underneath each home, he said.

Purcell is also constructing another townhome development named High Point nestled between the 17th and 18th holes of the Cardinal Golf Course and west of Golf Club Drive and the Diamondhead Country Club, Rogers noted.

He reported 63 townhomes are completed, 20 are under construction and about 67 more will be built.

High Point's total construction cost for all 150 units is estimated at $9 million, Rogers added.

The reason for High Point's lower per unit construction cost is because they are smaller and are not elevated as in the Harbor House development, he said.

Rogers said High Point's completion, scheduled will depend on sales of existing finished townhomes.

High Point structures are contemporary rustic two-story homes.

Both projects were designed and are being built and sold by various Purcell subsidiaries, he said.

Housing development construction and sales generally represent a relatively new marketing direction for Purcell, Rogers noted.

The company previously was primarily involved in land sales, he added.

Rogers said two-bedroom townhomes in High Point sell for about $77,000 and one-bedroom units are approximately $56,000—those may vary depending on location.

Prices for Harbor House townhomes have not yet been established, he revealed.

Both townhome developments include swimming pools, he reported.

Harbor House will contain one, two and three-bedroom homes, Rogers noted.

Floor plans for Harbor House townhomes include:

— One-bedroom units with 900-square-foot, a 250-square-foot deck, 100-square-foot of closed storage, vaulted ceilings, one bath and a loft.

— Two-bedroom homes with 1,332-square-foot, a 300-square-foot deck, 126-square-foot of storage and 2.5 baths.

— Three-bedroom units with 1,972-square-foot, an approximate 300-square-foot deck, 120-square-foot of storage and 2.5 baths.

Rogers said High Point homes have a similar floor plan, but overall are smaller.

Purcell is also planning to build a 1,760-linear-foot bulkhead along canals bordering the Harbor House development.

Paralleling most of the bulkhead will be a four-foot-wide dock.

Purcell is now seeking a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers permit for the waterfront work.

Any comments regarding the work should be directed to D. Small at the Corps by telephoning 205-690-3185. The project number is MS82-00352-D.

HIGH POINT—A tree-shaded drive leads to Diamondhead's High Point Townhomes located west of the community's country club and Golf Club Drive which is one of two such developments costing about $15 million now under construction by Purcell Co., Inc. in the Hancock County community. Council agrees to join Waveland authority

Sewage moratorium apparently in limbo

By BRENT MACEY

A moratorium prohibiting new business in Bay St. Louis from discharging into the Bay St. Louis sewerage system will probably not be enforced by the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control, although the moratorium is expected to remain in effect until Dec. 23 or 24.

Bureau Director Charles Chisholm Wednesday made these statements in the wake of the Bay St. Louis City Council's agreement to join the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District Tuesday afternoon.

"We (members of the bureau and Mississippi Commission on Natural Resources) are delighted by the action of the mayor and City Council of Bay St. Louis," Chisholm said about the council's decision Tuesday to join the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District.

"As long as we feel they are moving in the right direction then it is likely we will not take further action," he said.

The bureau, several weeks ago, imposed a moratorium on the city, prohibiting any new connections with the city's sewerage system since it missed a Nov. 1 deadline to join the district and turn its sewerage lagoon over to that authority.

Chisholm said Wednesday that the moratorium will continue until the Bay St. Louis contract is approved by the

Boudin, Heitzmann to vie in runoff

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Two Bay St. Louis men will be in a Dec. 21 runoff election to select a new Hancock County circuit clerk.

Jerry D. Heitzmann, Mississippi Gulf Coast parole supervisor, and Robert (Bobby) Boudin, Hancock Civil Defense director, will vie in the runoff to fill the position vacated by Henry Otis in early November.

Otis resigned from the post as part of an agreement in pleading guilty in Circuit Court to an improper record-keeping charge.

About 40 people crowded the Hancock County Courthouse Board of Supervisors Room Tuesday night to listen to the special election precinct tallies.

The polls closed at 6 p.m. and all votes were tallied just before 7:30 p.m. After the countywide totals were announced, many of the observers cheered.

Unofficial election returns indicate Heitzmann amassed 46.7 percent of the total vote—just shy of the 50.1 percent needed for a majority and a win.

Boudin received 20.5 percent of the votes.

The unofficial returns show Heitzmann with 1,878; Boudin with 826; Francis (Frank) Lee of the Leetown Community with 533; Billy Ray Dedaux of the Dedaux Community with 478; Gloria Tartavouille with 202; and James (Jim) Odum with 103. (For precinct returns see page 3A)

Bay businesses burglarized

By BRENT MACKEY
Two businesses on South Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis were burglarized last week the same evening.

Both the Pin Ball Palace and Dan B's were broken into between 2 a.m. and 10 a.m. by robbers who stole an undetermined amount of money from video machines in both buildings.

Only money from video machines was stolen, the owners stated. Robbers gained entry to the Pin Ball Palace by prying open the lock to the front door, according to owner Lamar Laddner.

The door to that business sustained heavy damage.

Apparently the same robbers broke into Dan B's through a window, after climbing up a pole on to the back porch of the building.

BURGLARY CHARGES

A Bay St. Louis resident was charged with two counts of burglary Tuesday in connection with the burglary of a house in Lakeshore Sunday evening.

Bobby Tanguis, 27, of Route 2, Box 562, was arrested Tuesday and released on a $5,000 bond the same day, Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson reported Tuesday.

"Clock radios, a vacuum cleaner and other other items were taken from a house trailer in Lakeshore," he said. Peterson said the owners came home during the alleged burglary and spotted a man running from the house.

Oysters

dustier awful bad. And with the oyster scare in Louisiana and now this—it will hurt us," May stated.

"But we realize this is a preventative measure and needs to be done," he said regarding possible health hazards.

Deegen reported the only Mississippi public oyster reefs not affected by the state order are two relatively small tonging areas.

One is the Long Beach Reef which was artificially created two years ago on the former site of Kitty Wake Reef (destroyed by the 1947 hurricane) and the other is Bangs Lake in Jackson County.

But all Mississippi oyster dredging areas are closed, he noted.

Reefs ordered closed include Pass Christian, Henderson Point, Pass Marianne, Telegraph, St. Joe, Waveland, St. Stanislaus, Bay St. Louis and any private leases west of Menge.

The BMR official said the closure was based on 14 water samples taken at or nearby the reefs which "all found bacteria levels of 2,400 parts per 100 milliliters of water.

He noted the state sets maximum bacteria levels, but speculated the maximum requirement might be 45 parts per 100 milliliters.

Deegen said an extreme change in the tidal cycle or a strong northeast wind could reduce the bacteria count.

He said fishermen will be notified when the reefs will reopen through local news media.

He reported the BMR was about to close the St. Joe and Telegraph Reefs (oyster dredging areas) due to declining catches before the state order was issued.

"Any private leases in the effected area are closed as well," he noted.

"We're all hoping the closure won't last too long. We will do our best to be on top of the situation and take action when we can," Deegen stated.

"Keep abreast of the situation with the news media," he added.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory

of CLARENCE E. GARCIA

No farewells were spoken.

No time to say goodbye.

You were gone before we knew it.

And only God knows why.

For you went first and we remained to walk the road alone.

We live in memory's garden with the happy days we've known.

We had our times in sorrow.

We had our days of joy, and memory is one gift of God, that death cannot destroy.

In the spring we watch the roses red, the fading violets blue.

In the fall when leaves turn brown, we catch a glimpse of you.

Each thing you touched a long way will leave a hallow spot.

We stop sometime to say your name although you hear us not.

If tears could build a stairway and heartaches make a door, we could visit you in heaven and walk alone no more.

Greatly loved and sadly missed by

Wife, Children, Grandchildren,

Great-Grandchildren,

Relatives and Friends

We, like many other residents, enjoy eating oysters. It was bad to hear of the closing of all the local oyster reefs Wednesday by the Bureau of Marine Resources.

The main reason for the closing of the reefs from Mengé Avenue in Pass Christian to the Louisiana line is because of the severe rains last Saturday washing sewage into the sound.

We are in a way glad to see the oyster reefs closed before someone gets sick.

We know the oyster industry of Louisiana recently took a beating when several persons got sick after eating oysters. Hopefully the waters will clear-up in a few days and the oysters be good to be collected from the areas.

Some oyster tonging reefs in Long Beach and Jackson County are still good, so it does not mean all oyster harvest is out, only those in this area.

We are sure in hopes the resurfacing of Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis is not completed because there is an apparent dangerous situation in the making where the job is partially done.

To us, it would have seemed better to have only done a portion of the entire road instead of parts the contractor was able to complete because of a lack of funds as we have heard.

If this was the case, it sure was some poor planning on someone's part.

We have been told the four-way stop signs at Main and Second Streets, Bay St. Louis are on a temporary basis during construction.

With a four-way stop now there, does not mean for motorist to forget about caution. We have heard of reports of motorists trying to run over workmen at the intersection.

We know Main Street is a mess from Second to Beach Boulevard, this is necessary because of the construction.

The contractor is apparently trying to be as cooperative as possible during the renovations. We are sure the project would be done a lot faster if traffic would completely be halted.

We think it is only fair for all motorist near or in the construction area to use common sense and use extreme caution.

We received a telephone call on Wednesday from Mark Walker, caretaker of Judge S. Sanford Levy's Jourdan River residence in reference to the emu which escaped last Saturday.

The big bird is a real gentle animal, according to Walker and would come to him if someone spots the animal and gives him a call at 467-5110.

Walker said Judge Levy is offering a $200 reward to the person who sees the big bird and calls him, and he is able to get him back to his mate.

Our main concern is the possibility of someone shooting the animal which is on the endangered species list.

So if you see the bird, try not to approach it because it would take-off and probably run as far as New Orleans, according to Walker.

The animal can run up to 80 m.p.h. as she is one of the fastest species.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN:

People tend to litter where litter has already accumulated. Throwing trash from an automobile—be it a glass bottle, a metal container, or paper products—is like saying to someone else: throw yours, it's alright.

Litter is always ugly.

Governor William Winter has created a Task Force on Drunk Driving to mount an all-out attack on what he called "a problem of crisis proportions in Mississippi and across the nation."

The governor noted that drinking is a factor in at least 62 percent of the state's highway fatalities. He called for tougher laws to curb drunk driving along with a program to create public awareness of the problem.

Legislation that Governor Winter urged the 1983 Legislature to enact would close many loopholes in the existing law and impose tougher and more certain penalties on drunk drivers.

"Drunk driving constitutes a major and increasing threat to the safety and well being of the citizens of Mississippi," Winter said.

Drinking is a factor in at least 62 percent of the state's fatal highway accidents. This is a horrendous situation that highlights the need for an intelligent and firm approach to an immensely dangerous problem.

Last year, according to estimates by the Governor's Highway Safety Program, 375 Mississippians were killed in accidents involving drunk drivers. The economic loss related to drunk driving was approximately $72 million.

The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol reports that in the first seven months of 1982 there were 212 fatalities on roads for which the Patrol has jurisdiction. Fully 131 of those fatalities, or 62 percent, involved drinking drivers.

DUI also is a major national problem. Each year, 26,000 Americans die and 1.5 million are injured by drunk drivers.

Charles Overby, executive editor of the Jackson Clarion-Ledger/Daily News was named by Winter to head the 28-member task force. The governor said the panel includes representatives from the Legislature, the judiciary, law enforcement, business, the news media, health and medicine, and the public.

Winter charged the task force with studying alcohol-related highway accidents and making specific recommendations on methods to reduce the accidents.

The members of the task force are Charles Overby, Jackson; General Sidney B. Berry, Jackson; Rep. Fred Banks Jr., Jackson; Rep. Jerry L. Horton, Ecorse; Sen. John Edwin Lee, Morton; Sen. Martin Smith, Poplarville; Rep. John Stennis, Jackson; Sen. Paul Richard Lambert, Hattiesburg;

Also, Dr. Dewey H. Lane, Pascagoula; Mayor Violet O. Leggett, Gunnison; June Milam, Jackson; Lois Moore, Meridian; Sheriff Osborne Bell, Holly Springs; Linda Pace, Prentiss; Sheriff C.O. Sessums, Indianola; Judge John Tipton, Natchez; Judge Patricia

CANDLELIGHT TOURS

Governor and Mrs. William Winter will host a series of candlelight tours of the Governor's Mansion during the upcoming Christmas season.

These tours, which the Winter family hopes will help Mississippians celebrate the Christmas season, will be conducted Thursday and Friday and again Dec. 15 and 16 from 5-7 p.m. The tours will be free and open to the public.

Volunteers will have the mansion decorated with Christmas items characteristic of the 19th century, and the tours will give people an excellent chance to see the mansion as it would have been decorated in the past, according to Mrs. Winter.

"We are urging people to come and bring their children on these tours," Mrs. Winter said.

Visitors will be served ginger cookies and spiced tea, and children will receive a special memento of their visit.

Music for the tours will be presented by Whitten Junior High and Murrah High School on Dec. 9, Jackson State University and Oak Forest Elementary School on Dec. 10, Siwell Junior High School and Jack Jones Brass Ensemble on Dec. 15, and Walton Elementary School and Provine High School on Dec. 16.

Association reports lung disease costs

Forty-seven million Americans of all ages suffer from one or more chronic respiratory diseases at a total economic cost—including lost work days and medical expenses—of $48.8 billion a year, according to the most recent statistics from the American Lung Association.

"Chronic respiratory diseases are found in all age categories, from infancy through later years," said Dr. Roland B. Robertson Jr. of Jackson, president of the Mississippi Lung Association.

"We are dedicated to changing these statistics through programs of lung disease prevention and control."

Statistics on chronic respiratory diseases include the following:

—Sixteen million Americans—adults and children—suffer from Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD), which includes asthma, chronic bronchitis and emphysema. Of the 6.8 million Americans with asthma, 2.3 million are children under the age of 17.

—The single most common cause of death and disease in infants during the first month of life is Respiratory Distress Syndrome (RDS) in which immature lungs fail to function and collapse after each exhaled breath.

In 1981 RDS affected 50,000 newborns in the USA and was responsible for 5,000 infant deaths.

—An estimated 315,000 people nationwide have asbestosis and silicosis and other diseases related to repeated exposures to fibrous dusts at the workplace.

—And while tuberculosis is no longer the national health problem it once was, it remains a chronic lung disease in this country. There are 28,000 new cases of tuberculosis reported each year.

"In addition to the chronic respiratory diseases, millions more suffer from short term respiratory illness," Dr. Robertson said.

"In 1980 there were more than 107.5 million incidences of influenza and over 13.5 million that same year suffered from pneumonia and acute bronchitis."

Though the support of Christmas Seal contributions, the Mississippi Lung Association continues its battle against lung disease.

MPLA programs include patient and family education; medical education programs and projects; "Superstuff," self-help kit for children with asthma; "Freedom from Smoking" self help guide for adults who want to kick the cigarette habit; school health programs on dangers of smoking on young lungs; programs to insure clean air; research in lung disease cause, treatment and prevention; and many other preventive and life-saving programs.

"Mississippians can join the fight for healthy lungs by contributing to Christmas Seals and volunteering service time to Christmas Seal work," Dr. Robertson said.

Tuesday elections contribute to light voter turnouts

Dec. 8, 1982

Letters to the Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

There are 16,000 registered voters in Hancock County and yesterday in the Circuit Clerk's election only 4,037 (maybe a few more) voters took time to go and vote.

Either the no-showers do not give a damn about how the county is run, or perhaps due to work problems or illness they could not get to the polls.

I for one think all elections countywide should be on Saturday. This would enable those who have to leave home at 5 a.m. to get to work and do not get back home before the polls close a chance to vote.

Respectfully,
Nina S. Garcia

Quality education sacrificed to lingering racial prejudice

Mississippi's Divided Education
By DENNIS MITCHELL
Department of History
Jackson State University
EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article resulted from a grant made by the Mississippi Committee for the Humanities port of the local governing boards, the public schools prospered.

Faced with the higher standards being achieved by the "board schools," the church-run schools declined and by 1900 church schools were in financial crisis and crying penalized themselves to educate their children as Anglicans, Catholics, or Baptists. Mississippians too often insist on educating their offspring as black or white. Neither religion nor race are valid educational divisions of persons.

With the return to "home rule," funds were far from adequate, especially for black schools. Mississippi's white political leaders seemed content for most Mississippians to remain ignorant field hands. Little "book learning" was needed to hoe and pick cotton.

"WHY AREN'T YOU IN SCHOOL?"

to the Mississippi Press Association. The opinions expressed are those of the author.

The defeat earlier this year of Governor William Winter's plan to endow kindergartens through an oil and gas severance tax illustrates once again how fear of integrated education keeps Mississippians divided and inhibits the development of a quality education system.

But, Mississippi is not unique in willfully neglecting to educate its children by sacrificing them to its prejudices.

Great Britain, that model of Liberalism and progressive legislation, did so in the 1800s. But because the British were basically white, they divided themselves and their schools along religious lines and let the Anglican Church, which was—and is—the established church of England, operate a school system which a majority of the political leadership sought to protect and aid.

Catholics in England had another private system and Nonconformists, such as Methodists and Presbyterians, who did not want their children taught Anglican theology, persuaded Parliament to allow public elementary schools to be established. Nourished by tax money and widespread sup-over the growth of "secular" education.

Much like the Moral Majority in America today, supporters of the British church schools claimed that education in their particular brand of Christianity was necessary to save children's souls and to make them good citizens. The Conservative Party, which supported the Anglican Church, passed the Education Act of 1902 to endow church schools by paying them a subsidy for each student taught—much like the voucher system being touted today.

Thus, in order to perpetuate its religious divisions, Great Britain kept an archaic education system. Other nations, including Germany and the United States, established better, more comprehensive systems, contributing to their increasing industrial lead over Great Britain.

The history of public education in Mississippi reveals a similar attempt to use schools to perpetuate segregation of the races.

Prior to the Civil War, Mississippi had almost no public schools; but after the war, a public system was established by the Reconstruction government. Yet, even under a biracial government, the schools were always segregated.

It was not a fertile environment for education, but during what Southern Historian Albert Kirwan called the "revolt of the rednecks," increased funding nurtured the weak seedling of public education.

In this century, a system of agricultural high schools was transformed into a junior college system. Paved roads and school buses brought consolidation of one-room schools after World War II. Institutions of higher learning survived the war and began to prosper with federal aid during the fat decades of the 1950s and 1960s.

But always white schools and black schools existed separately, creating an unnecessary burden on Mississippi with its limited resources.

Then, after years of resistance and procrastination, Mississippi's two school systems were merged. White support for public education plummeted. Compulsory attendance was repealed. Thousands of whites fled to private academies. Others fled to white suburban schools. State funds for the integrated system became more difficult to secure.

Today, Mississippi again supports two education systems: one integrated and public, one segregated and private, and racism remains the key factor which keeps Mississippi's educational establishment on the bottom of every rating scale.

CREATIVE IDEAS IN WOOD

Woodworkers' Forum

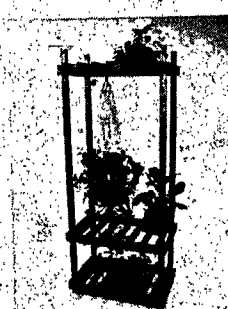

Question: Several months ago I built a plant stand. However, only the plants on the top shelf are growing well. Any ideas on what's wrong?

Plants need sunlight. If your plant stand has solid shelves, the plants on the lower shelves are being shaded and deprived of vital sun rays. Use slatted shelves that allow sunlight through to your plants.

A plant shelf with properly spaced slats.

Fit the slats in the shelf frame by using edge cross-lap joints. Cut dadoes near each end of the slats and cut dadoes of equal width and depth in the shelf frame. Start in the middle of the frame. Then cut a dado to the left (or right) of the middle dado. Turn the board around and cut the other dado. Repeat this procedure until the shelf has evenly spaced slats. A distance of four inches between slats is wide enough to allow sunlight through, yet close enough to set potted plants on.

During assembly, don't glue in some of the middle slats. Leave them detachable. It will be easier to put up and take down hanging plants.

If you'd like the detailed instructions to make this plant stand with adjustable slatted shelves, ask us for Idea No. 1849 and send $2 to Creative Ideas in Wood, c/o this newspaper, 750 Center Drive, Vandalia, Ohio 45377. We'd also be happy to answer any woodworking questions you may have. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope to help facilitate a quick reply.

It's that time of year again. While preparing for Christmas we need to guard against spending more than necessary. Here are some happy holiday tips for spending less:

- Making holiday gifts usually saves money, but remember if you spend $25 on supplies to make five teacher gifts, you may not be making the best use of time and money.
- Holidays are charity giving times. You can find out if a charity is worthwhile by sending for a current list which rates charities and non-profit organizations. Request a list from the National Information Bureau, 419 Park Avenue South, New York, New York 10016.
- When shopping for gifts, compare warranties along with other features.
- Check credit charges in stores where you shop. Some will omit finance charges if your account is paid within 60 or 90 days.
- Better yet, pay cash. Don't start out the new year with a pile of bills.
- Catalog shopping can save you both time and money for gas used in going from store to store. Have the gift delivered directly to its recipient.

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

- Practical children's gifts can be made fun by including an inexpensive surprise. For example, a pair of gloves take on a new excitement if a coin is put in each finger.
- Give gifts of time by making gift coupons that might read "Good for one weekend of free child care" or "Good for one free car wash."
- When packing fragile items for shipping, use shredded newspaper, plastic dry cleaning bags, or even broken foam egg cartons for lightweight cushioning.
- Most newspapers will let you have roll ends of newsprint which make excellent wrapping paper that can be dressed up with old cards and ribbon.
- To reuse giftwrap paper, use a little spray starch on the wrong side and press with warm iron.
- Run wrinkled ribbon along a warm curling iron for reuse.
- Make inexpensive ribbon by using woven fabric cut into strips. Press between sheets of waxed paper to prevent raveling.
- If sending gifts a long distance, shop around for the most economical shipping method. Compare Parcel Post, U.P.S., and busline costs.

• Christmas tree prices may vary as much as $20 so shop around and consider cutting your own tree.

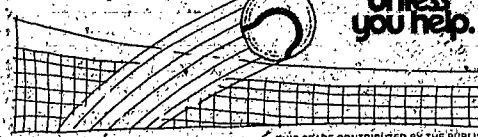

• If you use a lot of candles, freeze them first and they will last longer.

• Use Christmas post cards instead of traditional cards to cut down on postage and cost of the cards.

• If your stamps get damp and stick together, save them by putting them into the freezer and they should separate.

Bay PD stalking hit and run driver

By BRENT MACEY
The Bay St. Louis Police Department is searching for the driver of a vehicle which struck a pedestrian Friday night on South Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis.

Assistant Auxiliary Chief and Administrative Officer Brenda Anderson, said Robert Scelson, 18, of Route 3, Box 96, Bay St. Louis was walking across South Beach Boulevard in front of the Pin Ball Palace when he was struck by a vehicle and knocked down in the roadway.

Mobile Medic transported Scelson to Hancock General Hospital where he was treated and released the same evening, hospital public relations director Mary Perkins said Wednesday.

Anderson said witnesses gave police a description of both the vehicle and the driver of the car.

Investigators Ben Palmer and Murray Ladner are in charge of the investigation.

SHOOT-OUT

Two Hancock County men are recovering in separate hospitals from .38 caliber gun shot wounds inflicted upon each other Saturday night in a Cataboula bar.

Darnell Taylor, 29, of 524 Sycamore Street in Bay St. Louis was listed in fair condition Wednesday in the intensive care unit of Hancock General Hospital. He was recovering from two gunshot wounds in the chest and lung area.

Mary Perkins, public relations director at the hospital, said she believed Taylor would be transferred to a private room later that day.

Robert McDowell, 32, of the Cataboula Community was listed in good condition in Gulfport Memorial Hospital, suffering from multiple gunshot wounds, a hospital spokesman said.

McDowell was transferred from Hancock General to Gulfport on Sunday.

The two men apparently were arguing over money in the Playhouse Lounge when the shooting occurred at approximately 3:30 a.m., Hancock County Investigator Alvin Ladner said Tuesday.

Ladner said both men drew .38 caliber revolvers and emptied the chambers of the guns during the shootout.

No charges have been filed at this time and are pending the victim's recovery, Ladner said.

DRUG ARRESTS

Two Bay St. Louis men have been released on $2,500 bond each from the Harrison County jail after being arrested Sunday for possession of a controlled substance.

Robert Charles Poyadou, 18, of 506 deMontluzin Street and Walter Ray Smith, 20, of Route 4, Box 235, were arrested at John Q. Adams and Tennessee Streets in North Gulfport at approximately 1:25 a.m. after officer Charles Purvis allegedly discovered Talwin and Pyribenzamine (T's and Blues) in their possession.

Both men were released on bond several hours after their arrest.

CARNIVAL ROYALTY CANDIDATES—Bay St. Louis businessmen Dennis Stabler, left, Bay Pizza Hut manager, and Charles Bates, right, of Pass Christian, owner of Discount Furniture on North Second Street in Bay St. Louis, are the 1983 candidates for king of the St. Paul Carnival Association in Pass Christian. Mrs. L. J. (Sandra) St. Pierre, second from left, savings counselor at Southern Savings in Pass Christian, is Stabler's running mate, and Mrs. Randy (Linda) Perkins, second from right, of Pass Christian, medical assistant in the office of Dr. C. D. Taylor in Pass Christian, is Bates' partner in the contest. The fund-raising campaign to determine King Christian LIII and Queen Christiana is already underway and will continue through the first of February. Msgr. James McGough, third from left, St. Paul Parish pastor, and Sister Mary Rosari, third from right, St. Paul School principal, said proceeds from the fund-raising events will benefit the school. The association's ball is slated for Feb. 12 and the Pass Christian Parade, depicting the theme 'famous or favorite littles' will roll Feb. 13. (Photo by Bob Hubbard)

Santa to arrive in Pass

The Christmas parade and doll and toy distribution sponsored annually by the Pass Christian Rotary Club are slated for Saturday, Dec. 18.

Santa Claus will arrive by boat at the Pass Christian Yacht Club at 10 a.m. and will step atop a fire engine for the parade through the streets of Pass Christian.

Stops will be made at the Miramar Lodge Nursing Home, War Memorial Park and the Dixie White House Nursing Home on Minge Avenue.

The distribution of toys, following the parade, will take place at Camille Village on North Street.

The parade will leave the Yacht Club at 10 a.m. and head west on Scenic Drive to Miramar Lodge Nursing Home.

After stopping there, the paraders will drive through the nursing home parking lot to Second Street, go east on Second Street to Market Street, south on Market Street to Scenic Drive, east on Scenic Drive to Davis Avenue, north on Davis to Second Street, east on Second Street to Fleitas Avenue and south on Fleitas to Scenic Drive where a stop will be made at War Memorial Park.

The route will then take them north on Fleitas to Second, east on Second to Minge Avenue and north on Minge to the Dixie White House Nursing Home for a stop there.

The parade will then proceed south on Minge to North Street, then west on North Street to Camille Village where the toys will be distributed.

FAREWELL PARTY—Employees of Hancock Bank on South Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis honor Vice President and Branch Manager Robert Hamilton with a retirement party Friday, the last day of work for Hamilton who will retire Jan. 1. Hamilton, who has been with the bank since March 1947, has been the president of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club twice in his 35 years as a member of that organization. He was a member of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees for 20 years and is a former president of the board. He is a member of the Main Street Methodist Church in Bay St. Louis. Bank employees participating in Friday's ceremonies include, from left, Mary Flood, Kim Breland, Polly McRaney, Mary Ann Scianna and Kay Ladner. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

MISSING PERSON—The family of Mrs. Harold (Vivian) Metto, 44, of BaySide Park reports she has been missing from her home since sometime Monday between 7:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. The Hancock County Sheriff's Department and Mississippi Highway Patrol Wednesday searched wooded areas in the county by helicopter for the missing woman. Sheriff Ronald Peters said foul play is not suspected in the woman's disappearance. Relatives said she is ill and requires daily medication. She is five-foot, seven-inches tall, weighs 100 pounds or less, has medium length brown hair and blue eyes. Mrs. Metto is thought to have been wearing blue jeans, sandals and a white sweater.

Limbo

Waveland district and also by Col. Charles Blalock, director of the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources.

Wednesday, the commission members granted Blalock authority to approve the contract in their absence, Chisholm said.

The reason, according to Chisholm, is because the commission would not meet until next January.

Normally, the moratorium would have remained in effect until both the Waveland district and the commission approved the contract.

However, Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett traveled to Jackson with the contract in hand on Wednesday and requested the moratorium be lifted as soon as possible, Chisholm said.

"If the Waveland authority agrees to accept the contract; if Bay St. Louis agrees to turn its sewerage facility over to that authority, and if the contract is approved by Blalock, then the moratorium will be lifted," Chisholm said.

He stated the Waveland authority is expected to meet Dec. 23 or 24 and he anticipates the contract will be accepted and the moratorium therefore lifted.

He gave it (the contract) a cursory inspection and it appears to be in order," Chisholm said.

The contract signed by the council, is similar to contracts signed by both the City of Waveland and Hancock County.

The only major difference includes the stipulation that Bay St. Louis retain its sewerage lagoon as a means of treating wastewater.

That stipulation pends having the bureau approve the system as the most cost-effective method of treating wastewater.

Other terms of the contract, already included in contracts signed by both Waveland and Hancock County, allows each entity joining the Waveland authority to pay a pro-rated share of the cost of overhead to run the district.

Bay St. Louis City Clerk Eddie Farve said such costs would include the cost of testing, audits, and 'perhaps legal fees.'

The contract was approved by a 3-0 vote.

Only three councilmen were present at the special meeting; Council President Harry Farve, Wilmer Seymour and Gene Taylor.

Two of the most outspoken critics of the contract, James Thriffley III, and Sheldon Sezenau, were not present at the afternoon meeting conducted in city hall.

REWARD OFFERED

A reward of $200 is being offered for information leading to the whereabouts of an emu which fled the Jourdan River residence of Judge S. Sanford Levy, according to Mark Walker, his caretaker. The big bird, a native of Australia, escaped last Saturday and is capable of reaching speeds of 80 m.p.h. on foot. Walker asks anyone seeing the animal not approach the bird, but to call Walker at 467-5110 or the Hancock Sheriff's office at 467-5101.

REPUBLICAN WHIP

Rep. Trent Lott, R-Miss., won unanimous re-election Monday to a second term as Republican Whip, effective with the 98th Congress that convenes in Washington next month.

As the No. two man in the GOP's 167-member House organization, Lott, 41, is the first Southerner to hold the whip post since it was created in 1897. He will begin his sixth term as Mississippi's Fifth Congressional District representative next month.

A Review

Waveland Players continue haunting Civic Center stage

Shriek! Ugh! Spiders, cobwebs, all that dust—that's what you'll see when the curtain goes up tomorrow night at Dracula's Castle, when you join seven lost tourists on their spooky and hilarious adventures while lost in the Carpathian Mountains of Europe. The Waveland Players' final three performances of "Young Dracula, or the Singing Bat," by Tim Kelly will be presented Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p.m., and at 3 p.m. Sunday afternoon at the Waveland Civic Center on Coleman Avenue.

Tickets are $3, available only at the door.

The tourists, led by their clever guide Joan (superbly played by Susan Stevens), include Raymond, a well-heeled businessman with a roving eye, played by Ed Scanlan Jr.; his jealous wife Rona, played by Janet Alme (she doesn't let him roam too far); an unkempt fellow named Keith, played by John Helmers; his no-nonsense wife Lillian, very well played by Judith Gray; and Melinda and Jerry, a young couple travelling together, played by husband and wife team, Jeanie and Bob Zeigler.

The interplay between Rona and Raymond is especially well-done.

Walter Vaughn appears as an incorrigible Uncle Dracula, who covets, swishes, mugs, and leers his way through the role. His "song," accompanied by Werewolf Russel Fitch and Hunchback Jon Tobler, is a show-stopper!

No castle is complete without its housekeeper, played early by Hansel Baxter, whose makeup is unbelievable! If she wasn't listed as such in the program, you'd never know it was Hansel in the role of Moana.

Speaking of makeup, Ed Scanlan Jr., Theresa Arnold, and Nan Bradley deserve kudos for Dracula, Werewolf, and Hunchback.

Scanlan also designed and built the set, which is magnificent!

Glenda Dean gives a superb performance as the nearly comatose gypsy girl, Sybil. Her scene with the thrifty Uncle Dracula is one of the best in the show.

Frank Gray appears as the amiable Bill, Dracula's descendant and owner of the castle, and delivers a very fine performance. His singing and acting are proof of his vast experience on the stage.

Appearing-as-his-enemy-is Jeanne-Marie Bell who delivers another fine performance as an uncompromising bank executive.

Four frightened, shaky-kneed castle maids (who are eye-catching in their matching outfits) are appealingly played by Barbara Pursley, Elizabeth Hart, Alla Mae Lambert, and Margo Frommeyer.

Piccola Dietrich and her dancing gypsies are joined in a rousing tambourine number by the confused Hunchback. The dancers are Frances Mittee, Barbara Jo Fitch, Little Piccola Dietrich, Niccola Dietrich, Michelle Dietrich, Nina Simpson, Caroline Adam, and Judy Johnson.

Appearing in cameo roles as gypsy villagers are Danny Williams and Piccola Dietrich.

The Technical crew is headed by the able and well-seasoned director, Ted Stechmann and the very capable producer, Terry Simpson, who also coordinates the difficult sound.

The other hard-working crew members are Ed Scanlan Jr., art director; Pam Baumgartner, lights; Derek Stechmann, spotlight; Piccola Dietrich, choreographer; Ingrid Ling, accompanist; Ed Scanlan Jr., costumes; Ed Scanlan Jr., Theresa Arnold, and Nan Bradley, makeup; Jeanie Zeigler, posters; Jeanie Zeigler and Meta Garside, programs; Edith Bierhorst-Back, Meta Garside, Little Piccola Dietrich, and Jeanne-Marie Bell, publicity; Norma Simpson, tickets; and Bubby Dietrich, Ray Caldwell, Wallace Bradley, and Joe Overall, concessions.

Both Cast and Crew have worked long and hard to bring this light-hearted evening of entertainment to you all. So sit back and relax at those long tables you enjoy. You are in for a night of shrieks, laughs, free popcorn, and just plain fun!

One last word of warning: we ask you to use your discretion if you have youngsters who are afraid of monsters. The makeup and costuming are S-C-A-R-Y!!

Submitted by Meta Garside, Waveland Players publicist.

Bay High basketball teams extend winning streak, 11-1

The Bay High School Tiger and Tigerette basketball teams continued their winning streaks Monday and Tuesday nights in away games against Pass Christian and East Central, respectively.

The Tigers downed their Pass Christian opponents in a seesaw battle Monday, 44-41, while the Tigerettes romped to a 53-30 victory.

At East Central Tuesday the Tigers devastated their Hornet opponents 81-57 while the girls squeaked by the Lady Hornets 55-52.

Both Bay High teams are in second place in the Deep South Conference with a 11-1 season record. Stone County is the only team which defeated Bay High this year and the Tomcats, as a result, are ranked number one in the conference.

On Monday, next week, the Tiger and Tigerettes will be looking for revenge as the Stone County Tomcats travel to the Bay High School's newly repaired Tiger Dome for the second match-up of the season.

The game may decide who will be the Deep South Conference Champion this year.

"It's a must game for us," Tiger Head Coach Jerry Spell noted.

In the Pass Christian game Monday night, Pirate Brent Cannon was high scorer with 21 points.

He was followed by Bay

High's Milas Harvey with 20 points.

Tiger Ronnie Lyons

totalled 11.

Spell noted the Tigers trailed

Pass Christian 24-25 at half time and were behind 31-30 at the end of the third quarter.

However in the final period,

the Tigers came from behind to score 14 points as opposed to the Pass which could muster only 11.

In the girls game, Tigerette

Terri Rhodes was high scorer with 20 points.

In the East Central game, four Tigers scored in double figures. Tiger Ronnie Lyons

led with 18 points. Milas

Harvey scored 14. Kenneth

Cline had 13 and Delford

Farve scored 10.

In the girls game, Michele

Dorsey led with 24 points and Dina Benoit scored 10 for the Tigerettes.

Stanislaus downs St. John, 54-52

By BRENT MACEY

St. Stanislaus, in a barn burner of high school basketball game, squeaked by St. John of Gulfport Saturday in Gulfport, 54-52, to earn their first victory of the season.

St. Stanislaus Head Coach Steve North noted the Rock-A-Chaws trailed by four points with two minutes left in the game. The Rocks then rallied and scored eight straight unanswered points to take the lead by four points.

With 10 seconds left in the game, St. John shaved the lead to two points and then stole the ball to set up a final 20-foot jump shot.

St. Stanislaus grabbed the rebound with six seconds left in the game, held onto the ball, and won by a narrow two point margin.

Rock Steve Dravis led St. Stanislaus with 23 points, followed by teammate Jim Bass with eight.

North complimented both Matt Rosetti and Pat Cilurso, who made key free throws for St. Stanislaus in the final seconds of the game.

On Tuesday night the Rocks dropped a home game to Vancleave 54-36.

North noted, "There were a lot of fouls called on both teams and it hurt us the most because of our lack of depth. 'We played hard but I think they had more experience and it made the difference.'"

Rock Steve Dravis was high scorer with 13 points followed by Frank Bocock with 10 and Jim Bass with 6.

St. Stanislaus will take on East Central Friday at SSC.

Karl earns ring victories

Wayne Karl, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Karl of Waveland defeated an opponent from Lyman, Miss. in a recent boxing match.

Karl, fighting for the Gulfport Boxing Club against an opponent two years older, received a unanimous decision after three rounds.

On Dec. 4, Karl defeated Chad Barnett of the Ocean Springs Boxing Club in Saucier, Miss.

Karl is currently training for a Golden Gloves competition scheduled in Jackson this January.

Stone downs Hancock 61-38

The Hancock North Central boys' varsity basketball team was routed by a tough Stone County team Tuesday in Stone County 61-38.

Hancock Head Coach Mike Hailey noted his team was leading in the first quarter, dropped behind by five points by the half, and then had a real bad third quarter which resulted in the loss.

Until the third quarter, the Hawks played a fairly consistent game, Hailey said about his young team.

However, during the second half of the game, he noted, "We just weren't hitting as well as we usually do."

Hawk Darin Lader was

Hancock's leading scorer in the ball game with 11 points.

Hailey noted Lader's teammate Darren Lader had an excellent night playing defensive ball and managed to contain Stone's high scorer, Lee Brown, to only three points in the first half.

The Hawks will face Vancleave Friday afternoon in Hancock at 12:30 p.m.

Duck season to open

DUCK SEASON OPENS DEC. 11
Mississippi waterfowl hunters will be roaming the marshes and sloughs Saturday when the first segment of Mississippi's duck season gets underway, according to the Department of Wildlife Conservation.

Open only for two days, Dec. 11 and 12, the season will then close. It will reopen Dec. 15 and end Jan. 31. Mississippi duck hunters will be harvesting ducks according to the "point system." Very simply this means that each shooter has a daily limit of 100 points. Various ducks are assigned a point value, largely depending upon the population level of that species.

A hunter reaches his daily limit when the point value of the last bird taken is added to the sum of the point values of the other birds already taken during that day, and the total reaches or exceeds 100 points.

The possession limit is the maximum number of birds of species and sex which can be taken legally in two days. State enforcement officials say that hunters are not permitted a possession limit on opening day.

This year the point value of the various waterfowl include: canvas back, 100; female mallard, redhead, wood duck, black duck, hooded merganser, 70; male mallard, mottled duck, ring-necked duck, all ducks not specifically listed, 25; pintail, greynall, teal, shoveler, scaup, merganser (except hooded), widgeon, 10.

Wildlife officials say the legal shooting hours for waterfowl are one-half hour before sunrise until sunset. The shooting hours on some state-managed waterfowl areas and on some reservoirs will vary.

Duck shooters are also reminded that in Mississippi the use of steel shot is required only on national wildlife refuges for hunting migratory waterfowl. Shooters may not have lead shot in their possession while hunting in a steel shot area.

Hunters 16 years-of-age and older must have a federal duck stamp. Those over 16 and under 65 must also have a state stamp, in addition to valid Mississippi hunting licenses. All shotguns must be plugged and incapable of holding more than three shells at one loading.

Coast Guard urges safety laws compliance

Captain William J. Ecker, the Officer in Charge Marine Inspection, Mobile, Alabama is urging all small passenger carrying vessel operators to comply with recent changes in the Federal Regulations concerning lifesaving equipment prior to their effective date.

The information provided below should assist the operators of small passenger carrying vessels in providing a greater level of safety for their passengers.

The Coast Guard and the National Transportation Safety Board are investigating the capsizing of the small passenger vessel Joan Marie III on Oct. 24, 1982. The casualty occurred nine miles off the Atlantic Coast and eight of 22 persons lost their lives.

While it may be several months before complete details of the investigation are available several factors which may have contributed to the capsizing and subsequent deaths have been identified:

1. The vessel had experienced some flooding (Extent and source are not yet known) at some time prior to the casualty and had an accumulation of water in the bilges.

2. Some of the personnel flotation devices were stowed inside the vessel.

3. The primary lifesaving appliances (Life Floats) were lashed to the vessel.

Changes to the regulations concerning life floats and buoyant apparatus were published in the Federal Register on Sept. 20, 1982.

Within one year of the date all life floats and buoyant apparatus must be equipped with float-free links and sea painters to allow them to float clear of the vessel if it capsizes or sinks.

It is strongly recommended that operators of small passenger carrying vessels adopt these changes as soon as possible rather than waiting until the mandatory date.

Vessel captains are urged to review these portions of 46 CFR subchapter T (Small passenger vessel regulations) that deal with lifesaving equipment, firefighting equipment and preparations for emergencies.

Then they should examine their vessel to ensure that the requirements are satisfied in the manner that best suits their particular vessel so that all safety equipment will be immediately available in an emergency.

This action will reduce the danger to passengers and crew if a vessel should suffer a casualty at sea.

DREAM GAME

When Ralph Sampson of the University of Virginia and Pat Ewing of Georgetown University stretch for the tip-off of college basketball's long-awaited "dream game" on Saturday, WTBS Sports will carry the action on Hancock Cable Channel 7.

Virginia-Georgetown coverage begins at 7 p.m. with a special, 30-minute pregame program hosted by WTBS sportscaster Bob Neal and the legendary Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics.

Segments scheduled for the pregame show include interviews with Virginia Head Coach Terry Holland and Georgetown Head Coach John Thompson, visits with Sampson and Ewing, action footage from college basketball's last celebrated "battle of the big men" when Lew Alcindor (now Kareem Abdul-Jabbar) of UCLA took on Elvin Hayes of Houston, special interviews with Abdul-Jabbar and Hayes about their showdown, a visit with former UCLA coach John Wooden, a live "cut-in" of students watching the game at the Virginia campus in Charlottesville, and Auerbach's expert analysis and prediction of the game.

Skip Caray and Abe Lemons, one of college basketball's most successful coaches, will describe game action.

WTBS Sports game coverage will utilize six cameras, three video tape machines, two WTBS Sports trucks, 20 microphones, a production crew of 60 persons and a specially-constructed interview studio adjacent to the court at Capital Centre in Landover, Md.

Spanish Onions Ideal For Stuffing

Broccoli Stuffed Onions, made with "Gentle" Sweet Spanish onions, are a perfect accompaniment to beef, poultry or fish. Halves of Idaho-Oregon Sweet Spanish onions are parboiled and filled with a broccoli-Parmesan cheese filling including the chopped centers of the onions. A creamy cheese sauce, spooned over the top of each onion before baking, adds the final touch.

Also known as the "Gentle Giants," these mild Sweet Spanish onions, grown in southwestern Idaho and eastern Oregon, are attention getters in produce departments. Their season extends from September through March and you will easily identify them by their large size, round shape and golden bronze skin.

To best retain the flavor and quality of Sweet Spanish onions, store them in a cool, dark, dry location. After cutting the onions, place them in a plastic bag and refrigerate. Or, chop and freeze Sweet Spanish onions for use throughout the year.

- Broccoli Stuffed Spanish Onions
- 3 medium Idaho-Oregon Sweet Spanish onions (3-inches in diameter)
 - 1 package (10-oz.) frozen chopped broccoli, cooked
 - 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese
 - 1/8 cup mayonnaise
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 2/3 cup milk
 - 1 package (3-oz.) cream cheese, cubed

Peel and halve onions. Parboil in salted water 12 minutes; drain. Remove centers leaving 3/4-inch edges. Chop center portions to equal 1 cup. (Save remaining centers to season gravy, sauces or soups.) Combine chopped onion, broccoli, Parmesan cheese, mayonnaise and lemon juice. Spoon into centers of onion halves. Melt butter. Blend in flour and salt. Add milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and blend in cream cheese. Spoon sauce over onion halves and bake, uncovered at 375 degrees for 20 minutes. Serves 6.

FISHIN' TIPS

from Tom Mann

SOMEONE ASKED ME the quickest way to learn how to fish an unfamiliar lake, when you lack the expertise of the pros who fish for a living. Well, the very best way I know is to hire a guide who, every day he can, fishes the lake you plan to fish.

Most guides are dedicated to giving you a full day's fishing for your money. They are not there to earn a very small charge. Being a specialist, the guide knows not only where the fish hang out but also he keeps up with their seasonal movements.

But, as in any profession, there are topflight guides and there are so-so guides, many times just a matter of personality traits. So it pays to inquire around to be certain you're engaging a guide who's earned his stature.

Watch where he goes, how he fishes, ask a thousand questions and remember his answers. In one day you can learn more from a good guide than you can in years on your own. I believe you'll say you never made a better investment!

BREX TOM'S CLOSING TIP: When you're in the learning stage of fishing, it's wise to keep handy a small notebook for jotting down things you don't want to forget. Because if you don't jot it's soon forgot.

SWOLLEN KNEE JOINT

This fine lady came to our busy clinic complaining of a swollen right knee joint. Orthopedic examinations could reveal no injury or marked swelling, and others said it looked like dropsy, and bed rest, but packs and elevation were recommended. Finally her husband made an appointment for her with us. A complete Chiropractic examination and spinal x-rays showed a slipped spinal bone causing pressure and irritation on the nerve fibers leading to the knee. Within one week of Chiropractic care, all of her symptoms vanished and she was well on the way to healing, repair and recovery. She was amazed and grateful and has since sent many of her fine acquaintances to us.

BOATING TOPICS

by Bob Brewster
MERCURY OUTBOARD CONSULTANT

AVOID ROUGH DOCKINGS

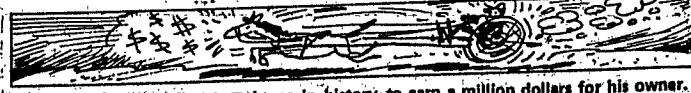

Like getting an airplane back on the ground, the most difficult task facing a boat skipper is piloting his craft to a smooth docking. Wind, waves and inexperience too often prove his undoing and rough dockings result.

Realizing that many boat owners would like to improve their docking technique, Mercury Outboards' boating department offers some ideas that will enable any boatsman, with a little practice, to "grease" his craft into a dock or slip like an expert.

First, make sure that the area is clear of other boats which could move across your path. If another boat is between you and the refueling pump where you want to go, back away and wait until the water is free of traffic.

Put fenders over the side before approaching the dock. Too many skippers do this after coming alongside and they pay the price for their tardiness in black streaks and cracked gel coats where the hull has slammed the dock.

Maintain steerageway when approaching a dock. Run the engine at fast idle speed so you can control the direction of the boat. Practice using reverse gear to stop forward progress, and to pull the boat's stern sideways. These are two of the most useful maneuvers you can learn.

Den Patch was the first race horse in history to earn a million dollars for his owner.

CREATIVE FINANCING MAY HAVE PITFALLS

QUESTION: We have found a home we like, but cannot possibly afford unless the owner agrees to provide part of the financing. I have heard of all the problems associated with owner financing and wondered if you could give us some advice as to what to do? K. G. Canton

ANSWER: Dear K.G.: Over the past few years creative financing techniques have appeared to be the intelligent way to avoid high interest rates when buying a new home, but, as you have noted, drawbacks do exist.

Most creative financing involves a loan from a seller to the buyer for a portion of the purchase price. Since the seller is interested in making a sale, the loan is made at an interest rate lower than what would be available through a bank. But because the seller is also anxious for the money, the term of the loan is substantially shorter than what would be available through a bank, say one or two years. At the end of that time, the balance becomes due in a lump "balloon" payment.

The buyer hopes interest rates will drop by that time, so the loan can be refinanced at an affordable rate. However, with interest rates stubbornly persisting in the range of fifteen percent and upward, these "balloon" payments are causing a great deal of financial trouble. As one homebuyer remarked, "the balloon burst."

Since you are considering such financing, make sure you can handle the "balloon" payment when it becomes due. While two years away may seem like a long time now, when the time comes to pay off the note, inadequate planning on your part could have serious consequences, including the inability to retain your home. Check out the facts before agreeing to such financing.

For answers to your questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 295, University, MS 38677.

EXAMINE SITE CAREFULLY

QUESTION: We would like to build our next home and are currently looking at vacant lots. We have heard so many stories about drainage problems and boundary disputes that we want to be sure we check out everything before we buy. What advice could you offer us? N.W., Biloxi

ANSWER: Dear M.W.

A would-be purchaser should carefully examine the site to determine whether it has any problems of a physical or legal nature. The soil and subsurface should be checked to determine their ability to absorb water and permit construction without unnecessary excavation or blasting. Some soils shrink and expand with changes in the weather and thus require expensive foundations. Drainage should be checked and attention given to flooding problems.

The site should be of adequate size to permit the use intended and guarantee privacy. The purchaser should examine the view and also determine if there are any off-street nuisances or hazards. The site should be properly supplied with utilities or provide sion should be made for acquiring them.

If the site is developed, an examination should be made of the vegetation and trees to determine if resodding is needed or if any of the trees are affected with disease and must be removed.

Ease of access from the site to the street should be checked. Are there any blind turns or other problems? Is the site properly zoned? An examination should be made of the site to check the boundaries for encroachments and other deficiencies. Worn paths or roads or wires may indicate an unrecorded easement. These should be noted and turned over to the title examiner for investigation.

For answers to your questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 295, University, Ms. 38677.

PLANNING ON TWO INCOMES

QUESTION: My husband and I both work. We are interested in buying a home but cannot afford the mortgage payment on just my husband's income. Will a lender consider my income in qualifying us for a loan? D. P. Forest

ANSWER: Dear D.P.:

In the past, some mortgage lenders would not consider the working wife's income on a mortgage application, now would they lend to a single woman or female head-of-the-family. Fortunately, these discriminatory practices are against the law now, and qualified women — as well as qualified working couples — may obtain mortgage loans.

Such protection is the result of the Equal Credit Opportunity Act, the purpose of which was to assure that lenders would not treat one group of applicants more favorably than other groups except for reasonable and justifiable business reasons. Strict rules have been established to require fair dealing in all aspects of a credit transaction. The law is very broadly worded and covers all phases of a credit transaction.

For all loans, including real estate mortgages, lending institutions will now consider both incomes and make their decisions based on the individual merits of each application. The wife's employment history, stability and earning ability are evaluated by the same standards as the husband's.

However, in developing a budget for you and your husband, insofar as a home purchase is concerned, it may be wise to exclude either spouse's income if there is even the slightest possibility of one resigning from work to take care of children or attend school. If both incomes are needed for house payments and one is lost, severe financial strain could result.

For answers to your questions, write Dr. Dennis Tosh, P. O. Box 295, University, Ms. 38677.

County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

FARM OPTIMISM DOWN

If you're like most farmers nationwide, you probably feel that your financial condition now is worse than it was a year ago. That's exactly how most farmers feel about their situation, according to a recent survey by a leading marketing firm.

The survey asked farmers throughout the country if their financial condition was better than, the same as, or worse than a year ago. According to the survey, farmers' optimism about their financial situation is at a low ebb.

More than 60 percent of the farmers in the survey said they were worse off than a year ago. Only 10 percent of the farmers believed they were better off.

The farmers' answers to the survey were the most negative the firm has received in five years. It's no surprise that a greater percentage said they were in a poor position to repay existing loans.

Most of those who responded also said now is a bad time to buy farm machinery, farm buildings or more farmland. About half of them said it wasn't a good time to expand hog operations. Attitudes about hogs have slipped several points since last winter, despite more favorable prices.

The farmers felt a little better about cattle, though. About a third of them said this is not the time to expand. That response is a little less negative than it was six months ago.

GRAZING MANAGEMENT
Well-fertilized winter annuals can carry 600 pounds of beef per acre. This means they can carry two calves weighing about 300 pounds each or 1.5 calves weighing 400 pounds each per acre.

When pastures are first stocked, there will appear to be a surplus of forage. But a reserve is necessary for the cold months when plant growth is slow. Be careful not to allow crops to grow too tall before grazing, since forage will be wasted and small grains may be damaged by cold weather.

Begin grazing when grass reaches six to eight inches high. Graze small grain or small grain-ryegrass mixtures first. Grazing too early reduces forage production and causes serious shortage later in the winter.

Extended periods of extremely cold, wet weather or dry weather or dry periods can cause a shortage of forage. Grazing the crop shorter than two to three inches in cold weather badly damages the stand and slows regrowth. This can reduce total animal grains and returns. Green leaves should remain below the grazing height.

For information on managing livestock and feeding while not grazing in winter pasture, contact the county Extension office. We can also help you with information on other forages.

STORE GRAIN SAFELY

Farmers across the state and in Hancock County are showing a great deal of interest in storing soybeans and other grains on the farm. New storage bins across the county are evidence of increasing interest.

Care is necessary in storing the grain safely until it is moved to market. Keeping the grain safely takes a certain amount of effort and know-how on the part of the operator.

Spillage risks are too great to put grain in storage without applying some good storage management practices. Here are some that will help reduce risk of spoilage.

The moisture content for safe storage is 11 percent for a full season's storage. This means storage in the fall and winter and removal the next summer. Try to keep moisture content as near as possible to this level.

How long it will take to dry the grain depends on the initial moisture content at harvest, the size of the fan used and whether heat is used. If no heat is used, weather conditions during the drying period are important.

Check the grain for moisture condensation across the top and along the bin's walls. Use a moisture meter to check samples. Use a probe thermometer every week or two at various depths and locations to check for heating. If there is heating, aerate the entire bin.

Grain to be used for seed requires specialized drying. For more information on drying grain for commercial and seed uses, contact the County Extension Office.

COTTONSEED FOR CATTLE

Any cattleman is interested in ways to secure high quality feed at good prices. One alternative some cattlemen are considering is using cottonseed this winter as a feeding supplement.

Based on nutritional value, cottonseed is a good buy this year. Cottonseed contains about 22 percent crude protein and 90 percent total digestible nutrients on an air-dry basis.

Cottonseed can be used as a feeding supplement for wintering cows on hay or silage. Two pounds of cottonseed are roughly equivalent to one pound of cottonseed meal plus one pound of corn.

For supplementing hay or silage, there is no reason to add corn because cottonseed is an excellent source of energy. For best results, you should have a sample of forage tested to determine supplement needs.

Product Liability Law Protects Consumers

By Howard A. Specter
President
Association of Trial Lawyers of America

Each year, thousands of innocent consumers are maimed, disabled or killed by defective products which range all the way from toddlers' toys to industrial equipment and motor vehicles. Some of these tragedies result in product liability lawsuits being filed against the manufacturers of these defective products by victims or their families to recover damages for the harm they suffered.

While the record of American industry is generally excellent it is unfortunate that some manufacturers demonstrate a callous disregard for the consumer. There are examples of manufacturers who have consciously made cost-benefit economic decisions that have caused damage to the public.

They have weighed the cost of making safer products against the cost of paying for the human misery caused by defective products and have concluded that safety is too expensive. And thus, people have been maimed and killed. In some instances, manufacturers have withheld improved, safer products from the market while selling out stocks of unsafe, dangerous goods.

Even so, some uninformed people complain that there are too many product liability lawsuits, and that the judgments and settlements of these cases are too high. The judgments and settlements often are woefully inadequate to compensate badly injured victims and families for serious injuries. The truth is that victims would gladly return any money received from a lawsuit if it meant the return of a loved one or the ability to earn a living which has been lost due to a defective product.

It is important to provide fair compensation to those who have been injured by another's misconduct or defective products. At the same time, it is critical to strive for the production of safer products. Only in that way can industry reduce the heavy toll which it collects in human suffering. Product liability law and the public's ability to seek compensation help to serve that purpose.

The American legal system has made product safety good business practice, since it is obvious that more time spent on the drawing boards in designing safer products for consumers will result in less time and money spent defending lawsuits in courts. Trial lawyers favor the and of product liability lawsuits when there are no more innocent victims of defective products and when product liability claims are settled fairly and promptly.

Until then, it is only by strengthening product liability law that we will strengthen the likelihood of good product performance for this nation's consumers.

USM technical courses officially designated

The Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning voted Monday on a new designation for several of the technology programs at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg.

The technology programs that will be affected by the change are industrial, mechanical, electronic, environmental, construction, architectural and computer technology. These programs are now allowed to use the title of engineering technology, says C. H. Heiden, chairman of the Department of Industrial Technology.

Some of the programs have been accredited as engineering technology programs for years, but the university was not allowed to use "engineering" as a modifier for the programs because of possible confusion with other engineering programs, Dr. Heiden explains.

USM's engineering technology programs are accredited by the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology, Inc.

"This title change puts USM's programs in the high technology field. I have been very interested in the technology programs at USM having the proper designation since their creation eight years ago," and this change will do that," says Hattiesburg Board Member, Bobby Chain.

The proper designation insures less confusion between such areas of learning as industrial technology and industrial arts, a vocational program, Heiden reports.

"The change is not just by name; it's sort of a fundamental one. It should attract industry support and help at the academic level with potential students. The new designation puts us in a different league entirely, but the effects are really one of perception to those on the outside," Heiden says.

Other universities with engineering technology designations are Mississippi State, Louisiana State University and Georgia Tech.

"This new terminology gives our technology programs proper classification and designation and helps students and the general public better understand their high technology emphasis," says Dr. Aubrey K. Lucas, USM president.

"This means a lot to our programs here at USM. It brings the title of our programs in line with the content of our programs," reports Science and Technology Dean Gary Wildman.

Those programs in technology that are not currently accredited by ABET are expected to receive accreditation in one or two years, Wildman adds.

VEGETARIAN VIEW

Spicy Indian feast for 8

By DIANE SAVAGE
Copley News Service

Most American vegetarians know something, however little, about Indian cuisine and feel a kind of kinship (at least on a dietary basis) with India's Hindu population.

We share in common a very basic trait — we don't eat meat. For Hindus, however, avoidance of meat has a very different meaning than it does for American vegetarians. Hindu vegetarianism is tied up with notions of ritual purity. Each caste has a traditionally assigned purity status, Brahmins being the most pure and Harijans (children of God) the least.

Animal flesh, and even leather, are considered polluting substances which are to be avoided if ritual purity is to remain intact. In India then, it is the highest caste, the Brahmins, who are generally the least likely to risk defilement by eating meat. The less pure lower castes, especially the poor, will sometimes be quite willing to risk their ritual purity in favor of a bit of protein.

For Indians foods that have been fried in ghee, or clarified butter, are considered especially pure. Many Indian recipes call for ghee and it is quite simple to make. Just melt over low heat in a heavy saucepan about a pound or so of butter. Do not brown. When completely melted, skim the foam from the top and discard. Raise the heat until more foam appears and skim again. Repeat this process until no more foam appears and there is nothing but a clear liquid left. This is ghee which, unlike regular butter, will not burn at high heats and is therefore excellent for frying.

Indians recommend eating hot food during hot weather as a way to keep cool. I'm not sure exactly how this is supposed to work, but perhaps the spiciness of their dishes takes one's mind off the heat outdoors.

Today's menu will make an Indian feast for eight, with plenty of spice. I have included a recipe for Apple Chutney which is fun to make and nice to give as a gift, but you may opt for the simplicity of purchased chutney. Other condiments to serve with the Vegetable Pilau, Dal and Indian Eggs might be plain yogurt, fresh fruit, pickles or nuts.

Indian cuisine is famous for its varied use of condiments so don't be afraid to use your imagination.

VEGETABLE PILAU

5 tbsps. ghee
2 large onions, chopped
2 bay leaves, crushed
1/2 tsp. ground cloves
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. peeled and minced fresh ginger
1/2 cup potato, diced small
1/2 cup cauliflower, coarsely chopped
1/2 cup shellfish, fresh
1/2 cup green beans, cut in 1/2-inch pieces
1/2 cup summer squash, diced small 1/2 cup green bell pepper, diced small

2 1/2 cups long grain white rice
1/2 to 1/4 tsp. crushed saffron threads
5 cups water
2 tsp. salt
1/2 to 1/4 cup coarsely chopped cashews
1/2 to 1/4 cup raisins

Heat ghee in a large pot and sauté onions and bay leaves in it until the onions begin to color. Add the cloves, cinnamon and ginger and stir over medium heat for a minute, then add all prepared vegetables, rice and saffron. Toss over medium heat for about five minutes; then add water and salt. Bring water to boil, turn heat to low, cover pot tightly and cook 25 to 30 minutes. All the water should be absorbed. Add cashews and raisins and mix ingredients by gently lifting and tossing with wooden spoons. Spoon mixture into a large, well-buttered casserole, cover and bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees for about 20 minutes. Serve hot.

APPLE CHUTNEY

6 medium-size ripe tomatoes, peeled and quartered
2 cups green apples, cut into chunks
2 cups seedless raisins
1 cup minced onions
3/4 cups brown sugar, packed
2 cups vinegar
1/2 cup salt
4 oz. white mustard seed
2 oz. preserved ginger, coarsely chopped
1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper

Combine all ingredients and cook slowly, stirring occasionally, for three hours. Pack quickly into hot sterilized jars to within one-eighth inch of the top. Seal at once. Makes 3 pints.

DAL

1 lb. dried split peas
5 cups water
2 tps. salt
1/4 to 1 tsp. curry powder
1 cup canned Italian tomatoes
2 medium onions, chopped
2 tps. mustard seed
1/4 cup vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, minced

Combine peas, water, salt, curry powder, tomatoes and onions. Bring to a boil and simmer, covered, about 45 minutes or until the peas are tender and the consistency is that of a thick pea soup. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 10 minutes longer.

INDIAN EGGS

8 hard-cooked eggs, shelled and sliced
1 cup grated Swiss cheese
1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. curry powder
1/2 tsp. bottled onion juice
Peanut oil for deep frying

Thoroughly combine eggs, cheese, 1/2 cup bread crumbs, mayonnaise, salt, curry powder and onion juice in mixing bowl. Form egg mixture into 8 egg shapes using about 1/2 cup mixture for each. Roll in remaining 1/2 cup bread crumbs. Chill at least 1/2 hour. Deep fry in peanut oil at 400 degrees, immersing eggs in basket. Fry until golden brown, about 4 minutes. Drain on paper towels.

Bicycle safety urged in Delisle school program

A bicycle safety program was recently presented to third and fourth grade students of Delisle Elementary by the Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW Post 5931. The program consisted of three filmstrips, The Right Bike for You — Take Care of It, Bicycle Driving Skills, and Bicycle Rules of the Road.

The activities included lessons on hand signals, traffic signs, rules of the road, and safety at night.

The program was followed by the Post's annual "Light a Bike" program.

Starship Enterprise engineer compares U.S., Russia

"Fifty sociologists could interview 50,000 people and never come up with the answer" to why the Star Trek series was so successful, said James Doohan, this week's guest speaker at the University of Southern Mississippi's Honors Forum.

Doohan was the famous Chief Engineer Montgomery "Scotty" Scott of the U.S.S. Enterprise in the series which ran from 1966 to 1969 on NBC and which is still in syndication on 160 stations or cable channels.

The actor also played the same character in "Star Trek: The Motion Picture" and "Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan."

His "Scotty" character is so widely known that it inhibits Doohan in finding other work. "It's very nice to be famous...but, also, I'm not allowed to do some of the things I want to do," he said.

The only work he has done since the television series, aside from the two movies, has been in Europe and Canada, where he is not as widely known as a starship engineer.

Doohan can't put the total blame for being typecast as "Scotty" on the success of the series or the devotion of the fans, however; he created the character when he auditioned for a role in "Star Trek" in 1965.

A few weeks before his audition, he tried out for a role as a Scotland Yard Inspector in another show, but did not get it. During the "Star Trek" audition he used seven or eight accents and chose the Scottish one himself because, in the days of steamships, Scots were usually the engineers because they had built the engines, he said.

But the accent is about the only thing about "Scotty" that is not authentic. "Ninety-nine percent of Scotty is real; one percent is the accent," said Doohan.

Before Doohan addressed the audience, he showed a film on the Columbia Space Shuttle, which he had narrated. He described the shuttle project as the greatest engineering feat in the history of this country.

"Just because those in charge of the country today don't know how to run it properly...don't ever stop science from being productive," he told the students and "Star Trek" fans.

Comparing the United States to Russia in terms of technological advances, Doohan said, "We are the hare because we are a country of faddists; they are the tortoise and you know who won that race."

It Makes Plain Common Sense

Conservation does.

It's common sense to conserve our precious natural resources. Natural gas, for example. With care this clean, efficient, easily-transportable fuel will continue to be the energy base of the industrial Gulf South, from today to the year 2000 and way beyond.

There's little sign that any other source of energy will take its place as the most economical fuel ever found in great quantities. Actually it was the "cheap" fuel that spurred on the Gulf South's economic development.

When gas cost a nickel per MCF (1000 cubic feet), waste was measured in pennies. Now it's measured in dollars and hundreds of dollars.

Daily, as this company buys long-term supplies of gas for distribution to the Gulf South, it faces steadily increasing prices. As much as any company, United Gas knows the cost of waste. Conserve whenever, and wherever you can. The natural gas we save today will be needed tomorrow.

MAKE YOUR CHRISTMAS TREE THIS YEAR FROM TRIMMINGS!

Perhaps you don't want to kill a tree for Christmas this holiday season. And maybe you don't want to purchase one of those plastic or tinsel replicas, either. Well, don't despair, because here's a way to have a "real" indoor holiday evergreen without cutting one down. Simply make your Christmas tree from prunings!

Almost anyone should be able to find the raw material for a prunings tree. Just about any type of evergreen will do. We've used pyracantha, holly, juniper, and arbutus as well as the more familiar (in this application, at least) spruce, pine, and fir. Rural homesteaders will probably be able to simply prune trees in the back forty... improving their woodlots while they do so. Folks in urban or suburban areas can trim branches from evergreen shrubs... or even pick up—often free of charge—trimmings from Christmas tree lots.

In order to construct a do-it-yourself tannenbaum, you'll first need to gather (1) a supply of evergreen branches from two to six feet long, (2) a big waterproof "planter" such as a plastic wastebasket or trash can, glazed ceramic pot, or large stoneware crock (don't use an unglazed steel container, because it might rust through after weeks of contact with water), (3) wire for fastening branches in place, and (4) enough sand or pea gravel to fill your container three-quarters full.

There are probably any number of ways to assemble a batch of limbs into an attractive tree. However, we've found it easiest to first center the tallest branch in the empty container, and then wire the smaller limbs to it—one by one—making sure the cut end of each branch extends down to the bottom of the container (where it can pick up moisture and stay fresh).

It's best to start with the limbs that will form the upper branches of your tree. Begin wiring them to the "trunk" at a point high enough to cause their tips to splay out prettily around the central branch (you might also want to wire these upper limbs to the trunk at regular intervals below the top tie). Then just work your way downward, attaching each consecutive whorl of branches at a point a bit lower on the trunk than the previous—higher—limbs, and allowing their ends to drape out farther to give the festive fir its taper.

Keep adding greenery, trimming it to size and shape as necessary, until your evergreen is full and symmetrical... then pour the sand or pea gravel into the container around the base of the newly created tree in order to provide ballast and anchor the branches. Finally, pour in enough water to saturate the sand or gravel thoroughly. More liquid should be added whenever the sand appears to be drying out on top.

Your homemade holiday spruce won't be quite as sturdy as would a whole tree, so it's best to deck it out with lightweight ornaments and tiny, energy-saving Christmas lights. Popcorn strings, paper snowflakes, silvered cellophane icicles, and decorations made of straw, cornhusks, or yarn are just about perfect.

Extension Service offers tips on protecting carpet

Carpet padding extends the life of carpets, provides insulation from heat and cold, smooths out uneven space in floors, and absorbs noise to make rooms quieter.

Sarah Fountain, home furnishing specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said carpet padding is a necessary, but not necessarily automatic, part of your carpet purchase.

"You need to consider the use to which the carpeting and pad will be put," she said. "A pad that will go under wall-to-wall carpet, and thus be inaccessible, needs to be mildew resistant, while a pad that's going underneath an oriental rug needs to be puncture resistant more than it needs to be mildew resistant."

The three major types of carpet padding do not share the same characteristics. Felt and hair padding, made of felted jute and animal hair, is highly durable, flame resistant, and puncture resistant. "It is a firmer pad," said Miss Fountain, "and with the spiked heels, that women are beginning to wear again, I would recommend it for use under an expensive oriental rug."

Miss Fountain went on to say that the felt-and-hair padding does not stand up well to moths or mildew. It is not your best choice, in instances where installation will be permanent, such as under wall-to-wall carpet.

"Sponge rubber padding, one of the more popular types of carpet padding, is resistant to moths and mildew and non-allergenic. However, if used on wood floors in areas of extreme temperature change, such as in front of a large window, or around a floor heater outlet, the padding may stick to the floor," Miss Fountain said.

Sponge rubber padding is usually the most expensive of the three major types.

The third type of padding, polyurethane foam, comes in two varieties, bonded and prime.

SCREENING ROOM ONLY

By David H. Jones

HBO During December Oscar is on display this month on HBO.

Heading the list is Henry Fonda's Oscar-winning performance in "On Golden Pond." Nominated for 10 Academy Awards, "On Golden Pond" is a light, happy film filled with luminous performances by a couple of film legends — Fonda and Katherine Hepburn — working together for the first time.

I must admit that I had preconceived notions about "On Golden Pond." After all, teaming Fonda and Hepburn was bound to produce its own special brand of hype. And it did. I was especially afraid that the movie would simply be a showcase for Fonda and Hepburn to read lines together.

Well, the good news is that from the very beginning, Fonda begins to work his legendary magic. Fonda's portrayal of professor Norman Thayer equals his superbly fashioned characterizations from the past including such unforgettable figures as Tom Joad from "The Grapes of Wrath," Abraham Lincoln from "Young Mr. Lincoln" and Mr. Roberts from the movie of the same name.

And Hepburn's Ethel Thayer begins the screen metamorphosis about halfway through the film and finishes in a flourish. In the process, Hepburn managed to capture her fourth Oscar for a starring role.

The bad news is that daughter Jane Fonda is, quite simply, terrible. Although her intentions were probably good, the younger Fonda should have kept herself away from this cinematic vehicle. Her performance is the only false step in an otherwise happy film.

On the other hand, Doug McKean, who plays Bill Ray Jr., is quite good as the 13-year-old who, having been dumped on the Thayers' for the summer, tries to understand and communicate with the old grouch on Golden Pond.

Ernest Thompson also won an Oscar for adapting his theatrical production to the screen and, for the most part, the dialogue is crisp and funny. They'll be a few instances when you'll cringe from the blatant sentimentality, but it's easily overlooked when weighed against the whole.

Another film that I had preconceived notions about was 1980's "The French Lieutenant's Woman." Before seeing this film you expect to see a classic, mainly due to the fact that it stars Meryl Streep.

Streep has been hailed as America's finest actress by, just to name a few, "Time," "Newsweek," "Rolling Stone" and the "Today Show's" Gene Shalit. The statement is hard to fault considering the quality of films in which Streep has performed.

"Julia," "The Deer Hunter," "Manhattan," "The Seduction of Joe Tynan," "Kramer vs. Kramer" (her first Oscar) and now "The French Lieutenant's Woman" all display Streep's amazing range and talent.

After you've just seen "The French Lieutenant's Woman" you might feel as though you've been cheated...as if all the hype was simply that, hype.

Then, as you go about your daily routine, the subtle implications and the fine, understated acting that is so much a part of this film begins to work on you. The actors (Streep and newcomer Jeremy Irons) reveal themselves in memory as honest — never betraying their respective parts — and intelligent.

Harold Pinter's screenplay from John Fowles' brilliant bestseller, both expands and contracts the original work...adding touches and staying just ahead of the audience.

Director Karel Reisz handles the movie meticulously. Reisz establishes and maintains an even, slow pace throughout the film.

Even Freddie Fields' photography is complimentary. Fields highlights this film with his sharp focus, well-placed lighting and eye for 19th Century detail.

In the final analysis, "The French Lieutenant's Woman" is a classic movie in every sense of the term.

Film Clips

Other notable films on HBO this month include: Jack Nicholson's "The Border," Gene Wilder and Richard Pryor in "Stir Crazy," "Ragtime" and the adult comedy "Monty Python" starring Susan Anspach.
